Mid-South Community Banks: Fourth Quarter Roundup & 2022 Q1 Outlook

Summary

"The cure for higher prices is high prices." - Exact origin unknown, but often attributed to financier, Henry Clews, in 1919. Fourth quarter, 2021 operating results for Mid-South community banks generally matched forecasts with earnings exceeding consensus estimates for the majority of banks. Once again, it appears that analysts were overly conservative as banks successfully managed expectations during a period of economic uncertainty.

This quarterly publication summarizes the earnings performance from the most recent completed quarter for community banks domiciled in what PNC FIG Advisory defines as the Mid-South region. As the map below illustrates, the region encompasses all of Kentucky and Tennessee as well as regions of neighboring states that compete for deposits and loans in along the borders. The publication includes the vast majority of banks in the shaded regions with total assets between $100 million and $10 billion including both publicly traded and privately held institutions. More complete financial data for all institutions in the Mid-South (KY, TN and selected banks in IN, NC, OH, VA and WV) is included in the Appendices.

Fourth quarter 2021 results for Mid-South banks were mixed. Encouraging trends included solid credit quality, improving loan pipelines, and signs that core net interest margins ("NIMs") have bottomed. It is possible that higher interest rates could provide a NIM tailwind. Deposit rate hikes will likely lag benchmark interest rate increases, but many banks have excess liquidity and are challenged to invest funds without undue interest rate or extension risk. Strong capital and much liquidity should enable some companies to buy back stock and increase/affirm cash dividends. Banks continue to take advantage of favorable capital markets conditions to issue subordinated ("sub") debt and/or preferred equity.

Credit quality was not a serious issue and many banks recorded low, or even negative, loan loss provisions. Economic activity is slowly returning to pre-pandemic levels and numerous banks decreased specific allocations within the allowance for loan losses. We doubt, however, that zero or negative loan loss provisions can last much longer, which will cause tougher year-over-year earnings comparisons. Under the Current Expected Credit Loss ("CECL") model, economic forecasts have outsized influence on the determination of loan loss reserves when compared with the incurred loss method. Anecdotal data, however, implies that more banks eased underwriting standards while loan pricing competition remains fierce and widespread.

We believe there are meaningful challenges that banks face in 2022. Along with revenue generation (always an issue), compensation costs appear likely to rise unless head counts are reduced. This appears feasible given growing customer acceptance of fintech-based delivery systems. Mortgage banking fees are threatened by less refinancing activity if rates continue to rise. Regulatory pressures regarding overdraft fees will be impactful.

PNC FIG Advisory market commentaries continue to predict robust merger and acquisition ("M&A") activity. Per S&P Capital IQ, there have been 22 M&A transactions announced nationally since January 1, 2022. Overall, there were 209 deal announcements in 2021, compared with 115 and 260 transactions in 2020 and 2019, respectively. The pandemic has clearly demonstrated that both buyers and sellers have many strategic and financial reasons to merge, including the need to achieve economies of scale and boost profitability. As aforementioned, credit quality – typically the chief cause when deal flow ebbs- appears sound and should not be a drag in 2022.

Highlights

- Fourth quarter, 2021 results were generally good and mostly met or beat conservative expectations. There were few surprises, and there wasn't much to dislike. Credit quality remained solid, and the median net loan charge-off ratio was six basis points for community banks in the Mid-South region. For publicly traded banks in the region the loan charge off was negative two basis points on the back of negative provisions.
- Earnings comparisons should be tougher in 2022. Due largely to very low (or even negative loan loss provisioning) which seems unlikely to last much longer, we expect 2022 earnings comparisons vs. 2021 will get tougher. Core NIMs should improve, but the drop in fee income from the Paycheck Protection Program ("PPP") and potential removal of insufficient fund fees will reduce reported (i.e., unadjusted) NIMs.
- Inflation pressures appear likely to end the ultra-loose monetary policy. Probable Federal Reserve rate hikes and the wind down of quantitative easing ("QE"), appear to be game changing events for bankers. Based on Fed indications and market projections a series of interest rate increases over the next two years appears likely.
- Interest rates are higher, but spreads have tightened over the last few weeks. This could be a temporary move, but as of February 16, 2022, the spread between 2 and 5-year Treasury notes was 37 basis points versus 40 basis points a year-ago and 62 basis points a month-ago. We generally regard 2 and 5-year Treasuries as proxies for funding costs and investment yields, respectively.
- Banks are awash in liquidity. As of December 31, 2021, cash and securities climbed to 32% of total assets for Mid-South public banks with assets between $ 100 million and $10 billion, respectively. This same ratio was 24% a year-ago. We generally look past excess liquidity and low loan to deposit ratios as these "problems" are much easier to solve versus not having enough cash and funding sources.
- Strong capital levels should support shareholder-friendly initiatives. As of December 31, 2021, the median tangible common equity ratios for Mid-South banks with assets between $100 million and $10 billion was 14.3% down from 14.8% at September 30th.
- Loan originations will be key. Besides customers' excess liquidity, uncertainties associated with Omicron, supply chain delays, and fiscal policy affected capital spending and loan demand. We also believe that much of the loan demand is being met by non-bank financial companies, which is a systemic problem for banks.
- For some banks, loan originations were offset by paydowns and payoffs. We expect a significant drop in PPP loans over the next two quarters. Several banks, however, commented that loan pipelines were improving, which along with the recent rise in interest rates, should bode well for earnings.

- For the quarter ending December 31, 2021, pressure on NIM remains evident. The median NIM for Mid-South banks with assets between $100 million and $10 billion was 3.21%. The median NIM for the same banks was 3.35% for the quarter ending September 30, 2021, and 3.39% for the quarter ending December 31, 2020.
- Overdraft and non-sufficient funds (“NSF”) fees are being phased out. Community banks need to evaluate these products/services as money center and super regional banks shed or modify their overdraft and NSF fees. Besides the pressure coming from larger banks, fintech companies typically have more-versatile technology and low overhead, affording them greater ability to offer more low-cost or no-fee services than banks generally can.
- More aggressive cost-cutting and efficiency initiatives likely to occur in 2022. Banks will take a harder look at branch rationalization and staffing levels to boost profitability. COVID-19 accelerated many consumer behavioral trends, which includes the acceptance of financial technology vs. traditional branch banking. Banks likely face wage inflation due to overall labor shortage across the U.S.
- Capital markets remain favorable. Many banks have taken advantage of improved capital markets to raise subordinated debt and/or preferred equity. In addition to backstopping capital needs, institutions that are flush with cash should consider additional FinTech investment opportunities. Many community banks will find it practical to partner with large institutions to provide white label products for customers.
- Environment, Social, and Governance (“ESG”) bonds will likely gain more issuer and investor popularity. In December 2021, Forbright Inc. became the first U.S. bank holding company with total assets under $150 billion to issue bonds with proceeds dedicated to financing the clean energy transition. PNC FIG Advisory, part of PNC Capital Markets LLC, served as a Placement Agent. PNC Capital Markets LLC served as the ESG Structuring Agent.
- Many banks of all asset sizes appear open to a wide range of strategic options, including pursuing merger of equals. This strategy is particularly appealing for banks that trade at high premiums, which can make it difficult to sell to a larger bank at an acceptable price.
- PNC FIG Advisory suggests that bankers already considering an “exit strategy” over the next 18 months should accelerate that timetable. In addition to the “normal” financial and social factors that typically drive consolidation, the progressive attitude in Washington has increased the level of supervision and regulatory scrutiny of M&A deals.

*Banks between $100M and $10B in assets.

Investing in bank stocks has become a “stock pickers” market due to higher valuations and increased volatility. We believe bank stock prices reflect mixed and inconsistent sentiments regarding the economy, interest rate forecasts, and expectations for more bank consolidation. The prospect of higher interest rates has generally led to a shift to value stocks from growth-oriented equities.

Earnings forecasts remain hazy due to the extraordinary number of macroeconomic and geopolitical concerns. We generally believe, however, that the reliability of forecasts will improve as the effects of various government stimulus actions (including the PPP) fade and the impact of the CECL method of accounting for loan loss allowances becomes more embedded in earnings models.

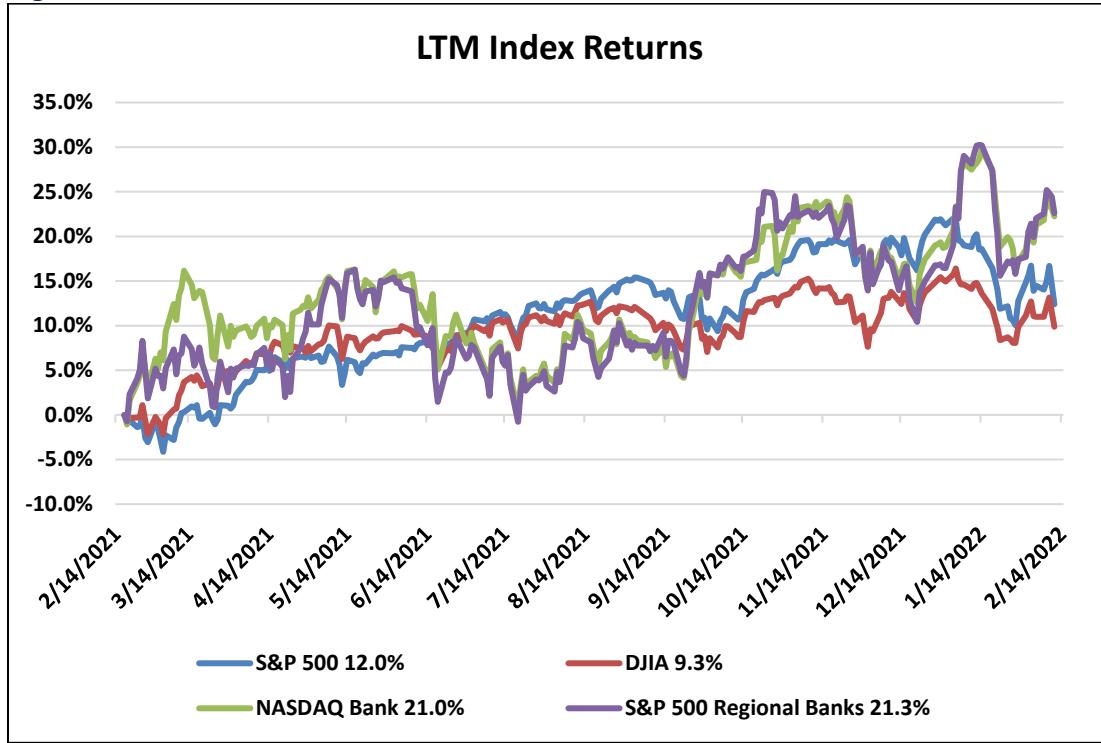

At its most recent meeting on January 25-26, the Fed indicated that it was prepared to raise interest rates in 2022, and its bond tapering program would end soon. Higher rates should benefit bank earnings provided there is enough loan and other interest-earning asset growth - many banks have outsized cash and securities portfolios that earn relatively little in the historically low interest rate environment. We also suspect that rates paid on deposits will lag yields that reprice on interest-earning assets. The problem for most community banks, however, would be if short term rates rise while longer term rates fail to rise commensurately thus flattening the yield curve.

- As of February 16, 2022, the S&P 500 Bank Index was up 6.3% and the NASDAQ Bank Index was up 4.7%, while the DJIA and the S&P 500 Index decreased (3.9%) and (6.1%), respectively, since the start of the year.

For the year ending December 31, 2021, the NASDAQ Bank and S&P 500 Bank Indices increased 34.7% and 33.8%, respectively while the S&P 500 Index increased 28.8%, and the DJIA Index increased 20.2%.

Investment Thesis

Institutional Use Only

We rarely think investing in bank stocks is easy, but the current setting appears especially demanding due to considerable interest rate and geopolitical uncertainties. Fourth quarter results were generally good. Asset quality and capital levels remained strong as evidenced by very low loan charge-offs and shareholder-friendly capital management initiatives. Loan loss allowances generally appeared comfortable; and many banks were able to maintain or release reserves given stable credit quality and okay economic forecasts. Business and retail customers appear flush with cash and asset values are increasing, which bodes well for asset quality for the foreseeable future.

Fourth quarter 2021 income trends imply that there will be winners and losers among banks located in the Mid-South region. As banks that are dependent upon spread income are squeezed, those institutions with niche businesses or significant non-interest income revenue sources (discounting overdraft and NSF fees) will ultimately fare much better than the group as a whole.

Banks continue to be challenged to invest surplus liquidity without excess interest rate risk. We believe that regulators and bank investors appreciate proactive asset/liability management, which often employs a funding structure that essentially matches the expected duration or maturities of assets. As a result, many asset/liability officers are more comfortable “playing defense” by keeping interest-earning asset durations short, even though that means sacrificing yield in the short-term.

It appears that overdraft and NSF fees are being phased out by the banking industry. The nation’s largest banks, including PNC Financial Services Group (NYSE: PNC), either eliminated or modified these fees recently. According to S&P Global data, U.S. banks’ overdraft revenue was approximately $6.1 billion for the nine months ending September 30, 2021. Fees vary among different institutions, but the FDIC estimated them at $35 per transaction. It is also estimated that banks generate between 1%-5% of total revenue from overdraft and NSF fees.

There are both competitive and regulatory reasons for overdraft and NSF to go away. Fintechs typically have more-versatile technology and lower overhead, which provides more ability to offer more low-cost or no-fee services than banks generally can. Progressive legislators have criticized these fees for years and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (“CFPB”) indicated more oversight on banks that relied on these fees.

Several companies repurchased stock and increased/affirmed cash dividends in the fourth quarter due to solid capital ratios and excess liquidity. Although capital levels were already strong, banks have continued to take advantage of positive debt market conditions to raise sub debt. ESG bonds are also good options for issuers and investors in many instances. ESG continues to gain importance and banks may not be able to take a “wait and see” approach as there could be harm by delaying initiatives. PNC FIG Advisory believes that sensitivity models tailored to individual banks can best identify additional capital needs and, if so, what form of capital is best suited for current and longer-term strategic plans.

Credit QualityInstitutional Use Only*

Mid-South banks with assets between $100 million and $10 billion had median net charge-off/total average loans ratios of only 0.06% (six basis point) for the December 2021 quarter. These ratios are roughly in-line with the same ratio over the past five years. We expect the nonperforming loans ratio will climb before net charge-offs increase, as net charge-offs tend to be more discretionary.

The median loan loss reserve ratios for Mid-South banks with assets between $100 million and $10 billion was 1.23% as of December 31, 2021. The same ratio was 1.24% as of September 30, 2021. Users of bank financial ratios also recognize that reserve ratios are also affected by acquisitions due to screwy purchase accounting adjustments mandated by the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB").

Capital Management

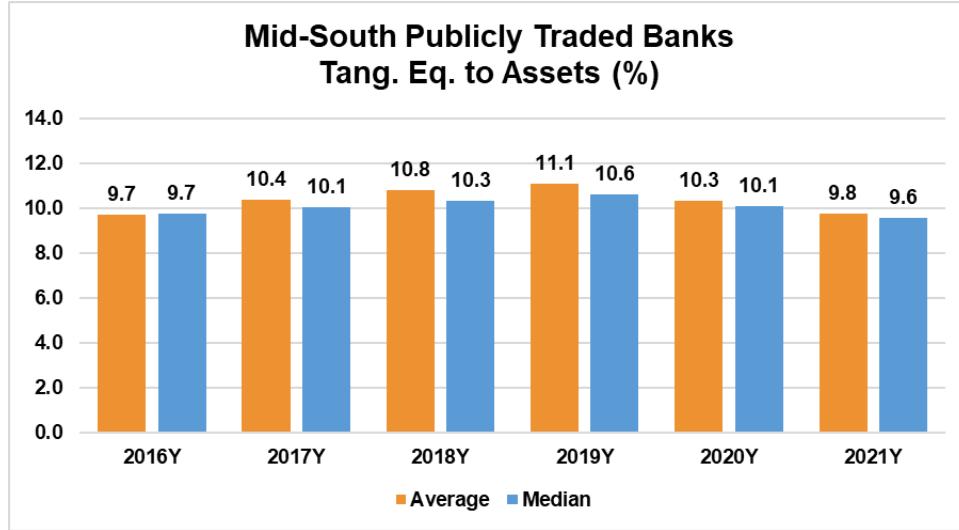

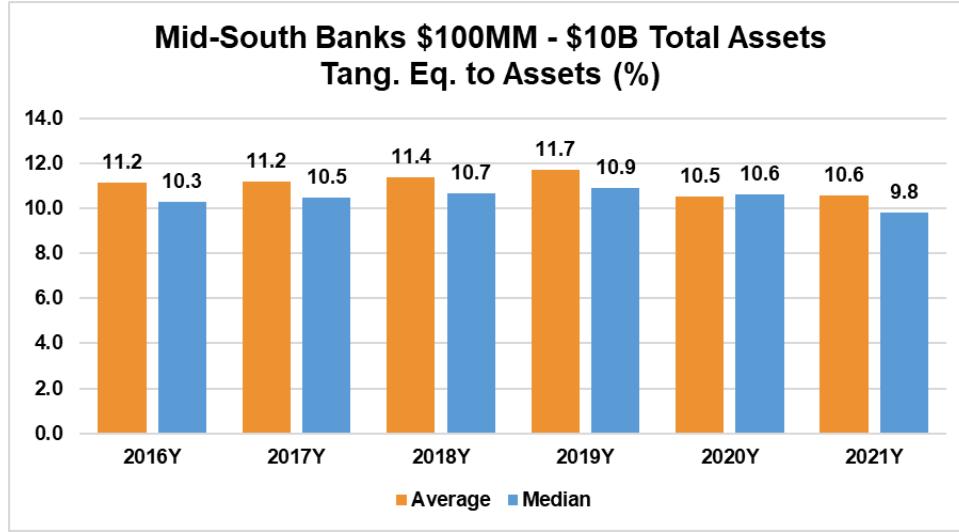

Institutional Use Only

As of December 31, 2021, the median tangible common equity ratio for banks with assets between $100 million and $10 billion in the Mid-South region was 14.3%. The same ratio was 14.8% as of September 30, 2021. Capital ratios should increase, all other things being equal, after the remaining PPP-related loans and deposits are forgiven and/or sold over the upcoming few quarters.

PNC Financial Advisory believes banks should evaluate strategic capital raising options to prepare for changing economic conditions, including the increasing possibility of inflation. As previously noted, banks continue to take advantage of favorable debt markets to issue sub debt. Common stock offerings are both good and bad: stronger balances sheets are produced but so is earnings per share dilution. As a result, combined with institutional investors searching for higher yielding securities, preferred equity is beginning to come into focus as a funding option. The optimal security type and amount of issuance is unique to each specific bank. Our team can help make that determination. Overall, the benefits generated from an equity capital raise include but are not limited to: (1) the ability to grow organically above the sustainable growth rate; (2) stronger regulatory capital ratios to support dividends and stock buybacks; (3) greater liquidity and visibility from institutional investors; and (4) support for M&A opportunities.

Mergers and Acquisitions

Institutional Use Only

Recent demographic changes seem likely to affect M&A deal activity and pricing for Mid-South banks. All other things being equal, it seems logical to assume that banks based in higher growth markets will be accorded higher trading and acquisition multiples. With the pandemic induced acceleration of domestic migration to warmer and more business-friendly states, it stands to reason that banks in the Mid-South region can expect higher multiples. That said, fundamental performance matters as does a willingness to embrace technology and mobile banking possibilities.

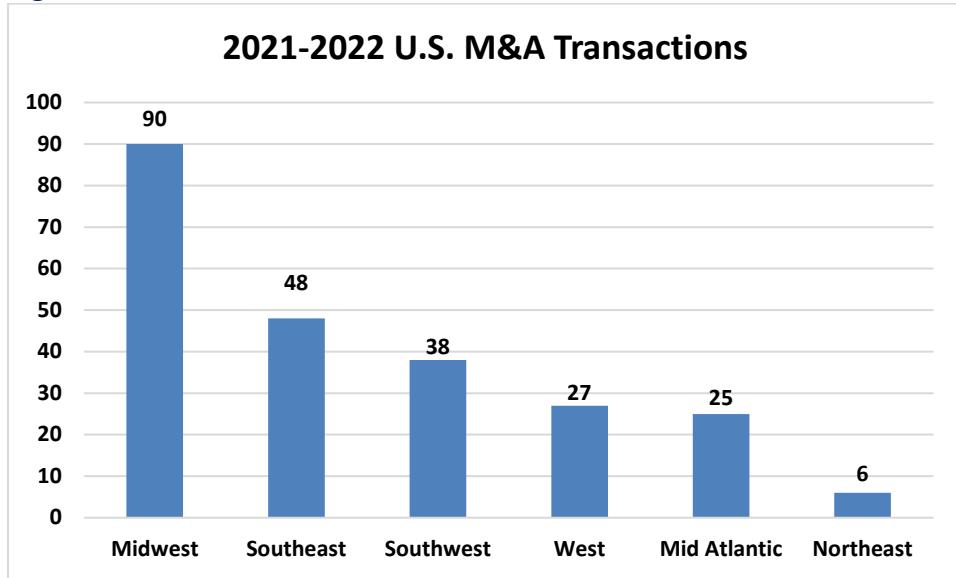

PNC FIG Advisory believes consolidation activity will remain vibrant. The pandemic has clearly demonstrated that major and permanent changes are coming to the community banking industry and banks across all asset sizes need to attain the requisite scale to successfully meet industry-wide revenue, regulatory, and technological challenges. Along with succession issues, these hurdles can be overcome via mergers. Deals, however, should continue to be smaller in size due to fewer larger banks and less companies with the capacity to buy larger institutions. Smaller banks, moreover, appear more apt to sell as they often lack the critical mass of interest-earning assets and/or other revenue drivers to offset fixed costs.

There remains a sizable backlog (86) of mergers awaiting regulatory approvals. We surmise the likely reasons for the logjam is the number of high-level vacancies and at bank regulatory agencies and a shift in the level of regulatory scrutiny following last year's elections.

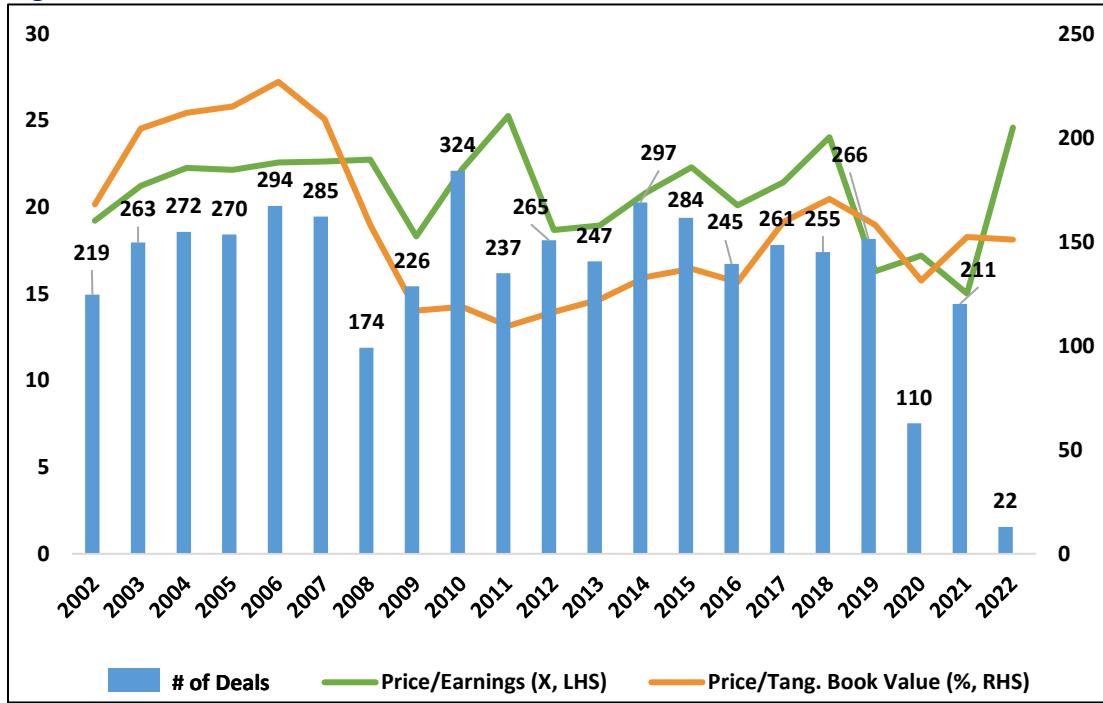

Per S&P Capital IQ, there have been 22 M&A transactions announced nationally since January 1, 2022. There were 209 deal announcements in 2021, compared with 115 and 260 transactions in 2020 and 2019, respectively.
